

my introduction to myself

Department of oral pathology Dr. Hamzah

“Oh I arrived to Japan” this are the first words I said when I stepped my foot in Japan. As living in a new country and meeting a lot of new people naturally include introducing oneself a quite number of times. I will be happy to introduce myself another time, but this time in writing.

First, my name is Hamzah, which mean Lion in Arabic language. I am a 29 years old dentist from Saudi Arabia. I born and raised in the second largest city called Jeddah. I visited many places in Asia, Meddle east, Europe and America.

About my study, I spent 13 years in school and 7 years as undergraduate student at King Abdulaziz University dental college. Then I join the faculty of dentistry at Taibah University as demonstrator of oral pathology in Madina city for 2 years. Which give me the opportunity to take one closer step to achieve my dream to become a pioneer pathologist. That was by getting a Saudi scholarship to complete my graduate study in Niigata University in oral pathology department.

Briefly, I will talk about myself. I am a quite person if compared to Saudis. I am kind of person who do not like to depend on others, always try my best and challenge most of the difficulties. One of my strength points that I can handle pressures and I am very patient. On the other hand, my weakness is my family. They always come first in every aspect.

In the end, I am honored that I got the chance to live and study here and being a part of this great faculty and society.
